Twenty-Ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time

October 18 & 19, 2014

I call upon you, God. In today's first reading of Isaiah, the Lord says, 'I call you by your name...', and in Matthew's Gospel, Jesus says 'Give God what is God's due...' We are called to love, honour and obey God, our Creator. We are also called to gift others with our love, care and compassion. God speaks to us in the silence of our hearts, inviting us to be God's presence in our families, parishes and communities. If we listen, we will often hear God call us by our name.

Annual Appeal 2014 We have been gifted with so much in our lives. Jobs, homes, family, friends and all of the material trappings of our modern lifestyles. Yet these things in and of themselves cannot bring us the fulfillment and purpose our hearts seek. It is only in "Giving to god what is God's", that we will find true happiness and fulfillment. Let your support of the Archdiocesan Annual Appeal be a well-discerned, and responsible act of sacrificial praise, service and worship.

STEWARDSHIP A DISCIPLE'S RESPONSE

A Pastoral Letter on Stewardship—10th Anniversary Edition

(Part 15—this reflection will be updated every second week)

III. Living as a Steward

REDEMPTION AND STEWARDSHIP

Everyone has some natural responsibility for a portion of the world and an obligation in caring for it to acknowledge God’s dominion. But there are also those who might be called stewards by grace. Baptism makes Christians stewards of this kind, able to act explicitly on God’s behalf in cultivating and serving the portion of the world entrusted to their care. We find the perfect model of such stewardship in the Lord. “For in him all the fullness was pleased to dwell, and through him to reconcile all things for him, making peace by the blood of his cross” (Col 1:19-20); and finally it will be he who “hands over the kingdom to his God and Father” (1 Cor 15:24).

Although Jesus is the unique priest and mediator, his disciples share in his priestly work. Baptism makes them “a royal priesthood” (1 Pt 2:9) called to offer up the world and all that is in it—especially themselves—to the Lord of all. In exercising this office, they most fully realize the meaning of our Christian stewardship. Part of what is involved here for Catholics is a stewardship of time, which should include setting aside periods for family prayer, for the reading of Scripture, for visits to the Blessed Sacrament, and for attendance at Mass during the week whenever this is possible.

Participation in Christ’s redemptive activity extends even, though certainly not only, to the use people make of experiences that otherwise might seem the least promising: deprivation, loss, pain. “Now I rejoice in my sufferings for your sake,” St. Paul says, “and in my flesh I am filling up what is lacking in the afflictions of Christ on behalf of his body, which is the church” (Col 1:24). Here also one looks to Jesus to lead the way. For one’s estimate of suffering, as Pope John Paul II points out, is transformed by discovering its “salvific meaning” when united with the suffering of Christ (Salvifici Doloris, no. 27).

“As each one of us has received a gift, used to serve one another as good stewards of God’s varied grace (1Peter 4:10).”
