Eleventh Sunday in Ordinary Time

June 13 & 14, 2015

The seed is the word of God, Christ is the sower; all who come to him will live for ever. All of today's readings highlight the principal of growth. They say Rome wasn't built in a day, but we should also be patient with ourselves and realize that our maturing response to grace, to the gifts of the Holy Spirit, is an ongoing work. Our Lord tells us that the Church, the Kingdom of God on Earth is animated by a mysterious dynamic of growth. Our failures can remind us of our need for the repentant, humble, contrite hearts that the Lord can prepare for Divine relationships in heaven.

Blessed Sacrament Parish is pleased to announce that effective June 1, 2015 we have completed the screening process for a total of 112 persons with files for the "Protocol For Responsible Parish Ministry" (Adult men=37.5%, Adult women=47.3%, Youth=15.2%). During the screening process, four people have moved out of the province or to another city, two people did not pass the screening process. Going forward, we are now in a maintenance mode to process ministry changes or add new volunteers once they have been completely screened. The Archbishop's protocol office has been informed that the parish is now ready to receive the auditors from the diocesan insurance company.

Eucharist A Short History--Part IV

By Alfred McBride, O.Praem.; St. Anthony Messenger Press

6. MASS IN THE ERA OF VATICAN II

The first document approved by the Fathers of Vatican II (1962-65) was the Constitution on the Liturgy. But a century before this the stirrings of liturgical change had begun. Benedictines had begun to revive earlier liturgical practices, such as Gregorian chant (from the sixth century), and were studying the roots of Christian liturgy and the ways all Christians once had participated. Pope Pius X (1903-1914) encouraged the use of Gregorian chant, frequent Communion and lowering the age for First Communion to seven years. THE MOST HOLY Eucharist contains the Church's entire spiritual wealth, Christ himself, our Passover and living bread." Pope John Paul II, Ecclesia de Eucharistia

Pius X's Mediator Dei (1947) lent powerful impetus to the liturgical movement. In 1951 Joseph Jungmann, S.J., published The Mass of the Roman Rite, that revealed the complex history of the Mass. In the United States, St. John's Abbey in Collegeville, Minnesota, supported the cause for liturgical change through its magazine Orate Fratres, "Let us pray Brethren" (now called Worship). Their roster of writers included all the movers and shakers who rallied the Church in America to the cause.

In other words, the groundwork was firmly laid by patient scholarship, hundreds of meetings and countless articles by the time Vatican II assembled. With relatively little debate and very small opposition, the Constitution on the Liturgy was approved by the Council Fathers 2,147 favorable to 4 opposed. The sonorous words of the Constitution reached a high point when it declared, "The liturgy is the summit to which the activity of the Church is directed; it is also the fount from which all her power flows" (10).

In the last part of the 20th century the application of the document began. A number of changes were introduced. The priest now faced the people. Vernacular languages replaced the Latin. People shook hands at the greeting of peace. The congregation was asked to participate actively in the Mass, to sing and pray at various times. People were invited to receive Communion either in the hand or on the tongue and to stand at its reception. They were offered the chalice so they could communicate under both species, the Eucharistic Bread and Wine.

Lay and religious could serve Communion as extraordinary ministers. Married deacons appeared, to assist the priest at Mass and to preach homilies. Entrance processions were added. People brought up the gifts at the presentation of the offerings. Priests abandoned what some called the "fiddle-back" chasubles for robe-like replacements. Mass readings provided a three year series of Scripture in which large sections of the Bible would be heard. Homilies, which had become lectures or announcements on most anything, were expected to explain Scripture and apply it to everyday life.

Church architecture became functional and minimalist in decoration, a sign of the times. Instead of the long "shoe box," a wider auditorium model appeared. Guitar Masses surfaced and new hymns were composed, leading to many arguments about taste and suitability.

None of this happened without some anger and discomfort. Some experimentation went over the top. But in fact the amazing thing is how little disturbance actually happened. The dreams of the liturgical movement were fulfilled and expanded upon. People are realizing that they can enrich their spirituality mainly from the celebration of the Eucharist. What's striking is that the significant impact of all this is yet to be experienced. In Church years, we're very near the beginning of the Council's reforms.
