3rd Sunday in Ordinary Time

January 26 & 27, 2019

It must have been an amazing moment the day when Jesus, in the synagogue, announced, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me because he has anointed me to bring good news to the poor." Many were expecting the Messiah to be someone else besides Jesus. God is in our midst. He is here to care for us, to heal us, to free us and to love us. As God's chosen ones, may we also care, be compassionate and loving, so that we too proclaim the reality of God's reign.

4. The Liturgy of the Eucharist

After Communion, we should spend some time in quiet prayer and adoration. There should be a period of silence to allow for this. Those who handle the Eucharist should always do so reverently, in an unhurried manner, without a lot of distracting commotion. It should always be evident that they are profoundly aware that they are handling not bread and wine, but the Body and Blood of Christ.

5. Go, in the peace of Christ

With a final prayer and blessing, we are sent forth on our mission: "Go in peace, to love and serve the Lord." We come together, to be strengthened by our encounter with the Lord in Word and Sacrament, so that we may go and put our faith into action.

Our final hymn should be filled with a spirit of lively energy, sending us out into the continuing struggle.

It is an excellent idea if, after Mass, the parishioners spend a few moments in prayer before leaving. It is also good if, after that, the community can gather for Christian fellowship. Some communities have a meal, or a time for coffee and conversation. This is a fine idea, but we should try to arrange this so that both before and after Mass the actual worship area may be a place for silent prayer.

We leave the Mass, enlightened and strengthened for our mission as disciples.

VI: Some roles at the celebration of the Eucharist

1. Disciple

We are the baptized. Discipleship is the basic role of each of us at Mass. We bring to the celebration a spirit of attentiveness to the Word of God, which we recognize as the needed light for our path. As we come from the daily struggle, we acknowledge our need for the spiritual life that we receive in Communion.

The last time we receive communion, it is called "viaticum", which means "food for the journey" (i.e. the final journey through death to eternal life). But each communion is "viaticum", for our earthly journey as a disciple of Jesus. As disciples we share, through baptism, in the priesthood of Christ, and so join our daily sacrifice, through our imitation of Christ, to the sacrifice of the Mass, which links us to the sacrifice of Christ on the cross.
